A Message from Judy Day, President

Lincoln's Birthday has passed, Valentine's Day along with Presidents day have been left behind. We are fast approaching daylight savings time (March 13th), St. Patrick's Day (March 17th) and spring (March 20th). Are you ready?

Along with the calendar speeding along, ACAA is gearing up for our busiest season. Plans are beginning for Open Studio and the first meeting is March 9 at 6:00 before our regular meeting. Be sure to attend and get involved. Our Scholarship committee is beginning its hard work, and you should be thinking about what to create for the fair, oh soooo much to do.

We have a great program planned for March 9th. Kathryn Devlin, so I hope all of you will attend.

Kathryn Devlin Will Demonstrate March 9th

Ceramic artist Kathryn Devlin will be demonstrating her techniques at the March 9 meeting of the Amador County Artists Association (ACAA). During the 2015 Amador County Fair, Devlin won the fair theme Best of Division with a vignette featuring a guitar-strumming cow accompanying singing flowers and animals. Her first ceramic show was with friend Cathleen Berglund at the Amador County Arts Council in September 2014. Her second show was at The Artistic Edge in Sacramento in October 2015, where her current work continues to be shown. "It is my belief that every person is an artist in some form or another. I'm thrilled to have found my passion in clay where the possibilities are virtually endless!" she exclaimed.

Devlin's interest in art began in Southern California as a child digging in clay deposits in her family's orange grove. After attending college at San Francisco State, she moved to Calaveras then Amador County, teaching primary grades at San Andreas Elementary School for thirty-one years. Her interest in ceramics was encouraged by two colleagues, Ken Winebrenner and Lori Kelly. After retiring, Devlin began working in clay in earnest, taking various classes from local artists as well as several in Tucson, Arizona. "My work is influenced by all my years of being with children, seeing the world through their eyes. Whimsical, detailed, fanciful are words used to describe my style," she explained.
