Sutter Creek artist, Julie Trail, wanders the foothills and mountains of Northern California seeking out landscapes that hint of quieter times. Julie loves to create a feeling of nostalgia for times past.

The history of gold mining in the Sierra foothills speaks of the dreams and adventures of another generation and another time. Farming and ranching tell the stories of hard working people and their respect for the land.

It is this that motivates Julie to paint. She loves nothing more than an old building or an overgrown homestead, a crumbling barn or rusted remnants of the Gold Rush for her subject matter.

In creating a work of art, Julie hopes to preserve a sense of what life was like in those other, quieter times.

By owning a piece of art by Julie Trail you are sharing her love of the land and its history in the gentle hills and magnificent mountains of Northern California. Check out Julie's website at: www.julietrail.com
